Among its varied responsibilities, the National Headquarters - Funds research into the causes, prevention, and cures of lung disease - Advocates for policies that protect lung health, including fighting for healthy air - Provides a broad array of health educational programs and services to support smoking cessation, help prevent lung disease and to assist people with lung disease in better managing their condition - Supports local Lung Associations' implementation of health educational programs and dissemination of educational material - Provides an array of learning opportunities and tools to develop nationwide volunteer and staff leaders

	Health Education Every year, the American Lung Association helps people manage their lung disease, overcome their nicotine addiction, and live healthier lives. The two key components of the National Headquarters' work are supporting our network of local Lung Associations and developing lung health education materials for the public. Local Lung Associations rely on us to develop health programs and provide expert training, guidance and materials to support their mission outreach. We are also a trusted resource where the public can find information on myriad lung diseases, make treatment decisions, and get support and tools to manage their conditions or care for a loved one. This past year we provided a wide array of services to help prevent and treat lung disease. In 2011-12 we substantially advanced this mission, touching lives from coast to coast. Lung Disease For Over 40 Years, the Choice of People with Chronic Lung Disease - In the U.S. alone, over 33 million adults have a chronic lung disease, such as COPD and asthma. Because these chronic conditions do not have a cure, people need to learn how to manage living with their lung disease. In 2011-2012 we created new web-based training courses that allow us to reach more healthcare providers and other community partners who are interested in becoming certified facilitators for our Better Breathers Clubs. American Lung Association Better Breathers Clubs help by providing patient-focused, community-based educational opportunities and support. Together, members learn the skills that help them manage their condition and improve their quality of life. Hundreds of clubs are serving many thousands of people across the U.S. living with chronic lung disease. Connecting Patient and Families with Expert Advice - In all of our programs and health education materials, people with questions about lung health are referred to the American Lung Association's Lung HelpLine at 1-800-LUNG-USA. In fiscal year 2011-12, the nurses and respiratory therapists who staff the Lung HelpLine answered more than 139,000 calls on topics ranging from clean air to helping a family member quit smoking. Matching Lung Cancer Patients with Help - The Lung Cancer Clinical Trials Matching Service is specifically designed for lung cancer patients and their families and is being conducted in collaboration with twelve lung cancer advocacy organizations. This service provides personalized education and helps to identify clinical trial options based on a person's specific diagnosis, stage and treatment history. Each person is also assigned a specially trained Clinic Trials Navigator who serves as a guide through the process. Supporting Asthma Management and Asthma-Friendly Learning Environments - Through the American Lung Association's Asthma-Friendly School's Initiative (AFSI), hundreds of schools nationwide worked toward creating safer school environments for students, faculty, and staff. In the 2011-12 school year, over 11,000 students were reached through the Open Airways For Schools program, a recommended component of AFSI that builds self-management skills for students with asthma. We created new web-based training courses that allow us to reach more healthcare providers, school personnel and other community partners who are interested in becoming certified facilitators for our Open Airways for Schools self-management programs for people living with chronic lung disease. We developed a number of new tools to help children and adults living with asthma better understand and manage their disease, including the Lungropolis online asthma game, Asthma Basics, and how-to videos. We also performed an extensive revision of existing asthma education content on the American Lung Association website, www.lung.org so we can continue to provide the best support and most up-to-date support for people with asthma. New Tools for Lung Cancer and COPD Patients In 2011-2012 we began to develop exciting new online tools to give new hope to patients with lung cancer and Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD). These new resources will help patients and caregivers understand their disease, make informed treatment options and better manage their conditions. Both our Facing Lung Cancer Support from Day One website (www.mylungcancersupport.org) and COPD Action Plan were released in November 2012. Highlighting Disparities in Lung Health - This year, we continued to spotlight the ways in which some groups are disproportionately affected by lung disease in our society in the ongoing Disparities in Lung Health Series. Our report "Luchando por el Aire: The Burden of Asthma on Hispanics," takes a look at the complex factors that increase asthma's burden on the Hispanic population. Tobacco Helping Thousands of Smokers to Quit - The American Lung Association's Freedom From Smoking and Not-On-Tobacco (N-O-T) have helped hundreds of thousands of teen and adult smokers quit. These community-based programs guide the smokers through the quitting process, helping them to determine their smoking pattern, create an individualized quit plan and navigate the first few weeks as a nonsmoker. Because not everyone quits smoking the same way, the Lung Association also offers Freedom From Smoking Online and one-on-one cessation counseling through the Lung HelpLine. Through our workplace wellness initiative, we worked with more than 40 major employers, helping their employees quit smoking. In fiscal year 2011-12, these programs helped tens of thousands of smokers end their addiction to nicotine and transition to a new, smokefree lifestyle. Supporting Smokefree Communities - In 2011-2012, we expanded smokefree communities around the country. We successfully completed a two-year Communities Putting Prevention to Work (CPPW) project in which Lung Association's Smokefree Communities team provided technical assistance to 13 communities to decrease smoking prevalence, teen smoking initiation, and exposure to secondhand smoke. As a result of the initiative, 26 million people in 21 communities across America have been protected against deadly secondhand smoke, more than 4 million more Americans now live in communities with strengthened oversight on tobacco sales to youth, and more effective messages on the dangers of secondhand smoke and tobacco use have been delivered to more than 21 million people across the country.

	Field Fundraising The American Lung Association's Planned Giving team focuses its work on assisting with field development by providing support to the ALA chartered regional associations. This support includes training local staff to be effective planned giving fundraisers, helping develop annual regional work plans, being informed on local follow up activities pertaining to requests from donors for planned giving information, reviewing quarterly reports on planned giving income and request notifications, preparing training materials and events to enhance the understanding of planned giving for people from fundraising staff to volunteer leadership. A variety of National staff provide Special Events support to the ALA chartered regional associations. This support is designed to assist in the development, marketing and implementation of events and promotions strategies. Among the assistance provided are planning (goal setting, strategic review, development of template material, feasibility studies), training (monthly conference calls, best practice staff training, listserv based materials, staff training webinars, etc.), implementation (sponsorship calls, recruitment, event attendance/participation), coaching (staff, leadership, volunteers), coordination of collateral, solicit national sponsors/teams, build, facilitate and integrate e-commerce platforms, and evaluation of new events. The primary focus is to increase the Chartered Associations net revenue and fully integrate best practice strategies into the overall work plan. The Major Gifts team works with the ALA chartered regional associations on joint funding prospects and provides one-on-one assistance when requested. Among the support activities are compilation of research lists and development of research profiles, evaluation of funding proposals, strategic advice regarding funding initiatives and prospects, providing training at staff meetings and conference calls. This year we provided a wealth screening overlay and a follow-on research tool, a donor centric assessment, and predictive donor modeling for the chartered association staff. The Direct Response team develops and implements campaign plans for all direct mail appeals, telemarketing campaigns and the residential program in conjunction with our direct response consulting agency. All funds generated are deposited directly into local association accounts on a regular (weekly or bi-weekly) basis with detailed reports by campaign for the current period and YTD. Local associations are billed monthly for direct response expenses and quarterly for a 30% share of the net income generated by the programs. Associations are provided with a budget for each program along with cash flow and billing schedules, as well as quarterly updates on actual performance. Billed expenses are reconciled to actual costs at the end of the fiscal year. Images of all rollout mailing packages are posted on LungNet for reference by local associations. Monthly direct response calls or meetings are conducted to which all local CEOs are invited to participate for updates on the program and any issues or questions that arise.

	RESEARCH Funding research has been a cornerstone of the Lung Association's fight against lung disease for more than a century. In 2011-12, our donors again made it possible to fund high quality researchers seeking treatments and cures for an array of lung diseases from asthma to lung cancer. Our Nationwide Research Awards and Grants Program fosters laboratory and patient-centered and social behavior research to prevent, treat and hopefully find a cure for all lung diseases. In 2011-12, our program funded 68 grants to further promising, cutting-edge research. Additional support in funding this year's research program came from partnerships with AAAAI and the CHEST Foundation. The Lung Association's Asthma Clinical Research Centers Network (ACRC) continues to contribute major improvements to asthma treatments through a network of 18 clinical centers and a data coordinating center at Johns Hopkins. In 2011-12, research conducted by the ACRC found that treatment with proton pump inhibitors (e.g. prevacid) did not improve asthma control in those with asymptomatic GER, concluding that acid reflux without symptoms is not a likely cause of poorly controlled asthma. awards for highest achievement are given in specific categories. The American Lung Association Board of Directors provides strategic direction for the national headquarters and its chartered associations. Coordination and monitoring of national and chartered association strategic alignment is provided through a Board-approved metric-based performance management system. The American Lung Association Board of Directors is responsible for oversight of chartered association compliance to policies and performance standards. Assistance is provided by the national headquarters to those chartered associations that do not meet requirements and/or standards.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4d	other program service accomplishments	Advocacy Every year, the American Lung Association fights for public policies that support our mission to save lives by improving lung health and preventing lung disease. In 2011-12, our advocacy efforts again yielded important results. Healthy Air Our Healthy Air Campaign continued in its fight to protect the Clean Air Act from attempts to weaken the law, and to push the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to implement its lifesaving protections. As part of the campaign, we launched the Red Carriage initiative, an ad campaign and more, that created an iconic symbol of the importance of clean air to the health of our children. With allies, we issued the "Sick of Soot" report that pointed to the 35,700 premature deaths annually from particulate matter pollution that could be prevented if the EPA adopts strong national air quality standards. EPA proposed new standards on particle pollution following our successful legal actions against them for failing to follow the Clean Air Act to regularly review and set standards that actually protect public health. Our "State of the Air 2012" report (www.stateoftheair.org) showed that the air quality in many places has improved, but that over 127 million people-41 percent of the nation-still suffer pollution levels that are too often dangerous to breathe. We also introduced a State of the Air phone app that delivers air quality updates to smartphones. Health Care The American Lung Association worked to implement the landmark Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and expand insurance coverage of quit-smoking treatments. The law extends health insurance coverage to millions of Americans who are currently uninsured -- including those with lung disease. The law puts a major emphasis on prevention and management of chronic diseases, including COPD and asthma. Lung Disease In 2011-2012 the Lung Association was once again instrumental in leading the nationwide fight to save the National Asthma Control Program at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention from elimination. This program funds states to provide community-based organizations to help people living with asthma better manage their disease to reduce hospitalizations and deaths. Tobacco Control The 2009 Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act is under threat from the cigar industry. In 2011-2012 the Lung Association continued to fight to make sure candy-flavored and other cigars are not exempted from basic oversight by the Food and Drug Administration. Our signature report, "State of Tobacco Control 2012" found that most states have failed to put in place proven tobacco prevention policies to fight the tobacco epidemic, while the federal government continued to take important steps forward. We also issued the report "Helping Smokers Quit: Tobacco Cessation Coverage 2011," which showed states are missing a big opportunity to help smokers quit, and to save taxpayer money by covering comprehensive tobacco cessation treatments. The report also discussed the many opportunities the federal government has to help smokers quit through the implementation of the Affordable Care Act and other policies. Field Program Development SUPPORT OF AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION CHARTERED ASSOCIATIONS The American Lung Association national headquarters supports its 9 chartered associations through coaching, training, consultation and technical assistance. American Lung Association staff and volunteers throughout the country are provided skill-building and other learning opportunities to help them successfully deliver the American Lung Association's mission. Through implementation of these staff learning and volunteer development offerings, chartered associations are kept current on best practices in lung health programs and delivery, advocacy, financial management, fundraising, leadership development and volunteer management. One-on-one coaching and consultation by national headquarters staff is offered as needed or requested. Individual discipline groups (e.g. chief executive officers, chief financial officers, chief development officers, program managers, etc.) meet regularly with national headquarters peers to share ideas, problem-solve, and network. The American Lung Association conducts a nationwide volunteer and staff recognition program. Volunteers and staff are recognized on an ongoing basis for outstanding performance. An annual recognition ceremony is held at a meeting of the American Lung Association Board of Directors and Nationwide Assembly where awards for highest achievement are given in specific categories. The American Lung Association Board of Directors provides strategic direction for the national headquarters and its chartered associations. Coordination and monitoring of national and chartered association strategic alignment is provided through a Board-approved metric-based performance management system. The American Lung Association Board of Directors is responsible for oversight of chartered association.
